

Player's Corner

LADIES' CHOICE

Power Cords

If you spent time at the gym this winter, you're probably aware of the benefits of resistance cords and bands. Florida-based GolfGym offers a PowerSwing Trainer that includes the stretch power cord and an instructional DVD with golf-specific training and conditioning lessons for developing muscle memory, strength and flexibility. Increased reps with the lighter resistance bands help women tone and build strength without adding bulk. $39.95. Kick it up a notch by getting the Complete GolfGym Workout DVD with Golf Channel fitness expert Katherine Roberts demonstrating 13 golf-specific workouts. $19.95. golfgym.com

Eye-Catching

Capitalizing on last year's successful eyewear launch, Adidas is featuring Adilibras in its 2007 collection. Shown here in mahogany, the Adilibras collection features LST Golf lenses, which offer superior golf-course clarity and ultra-slim nose pads that adjust for bridge size and lash length. Best of all, the sunglasses won't tangle in your hair when moonlighting as a headband. $125. shopadidas.com

Tip o' the Hat

Originally created by a Canadian sailor who couldn't find headwear to handle the water, salt and wind on the high seas, Tilley hats are now regular wear among golfers. Many consider the new 3-ounce ITMS Airflo model the best-looking, best-wearing and best-proportioned hat in the company's collection. Its lightweight construction incorporates mesh into the crown, allowing for coolness and comfort on hot days. Featuring a tuck-away, adjustable wind cord, the hat blocks 98 percent of UVA/UVB rays. It comes in 13 sizes with a lifetime guarantee. $69. tilley.com
-By Mary Scott

Mother of Invention

Pop quiz. Who taught Greg Norman how to play golf? His mom! Toni Norman inspired her 15-year-old son to play after he'd caddied for her at Virginia Beach Golf Club in Brisbane. So it should come as no surprise that the Great White Shark's clothing collection features classy women's pieces designed for the over-35 golfer. The micro-fiber, polyester/spandex Play Dry Tonal Floral Split Neck Polo, $64, goes with the Play Dry Perfect Fit Skort, which features an adjustable waistband, front-slant pockets and an ultra-lightweight short liner. $64. Top it off with the Gatsby V-Neck Cable Vest, made of 100-percent mercerized cotton. The rich cable texture includes rib trim at the neck, sleeves and bottom hem. $78. shark.com

